

Energy Strategies, LLC Retained by TransWest Express Transmission Project

In 2007, Energy Strategies, LLC was retained by the TransWest Express Transmission Project as a consultant. The 900-mile TransWest Express Transmission Project will deliver high quality wind energy from Wyoming to the desert southwest load centers. Energy Strategies is involved in numerous aspects of the projects' development. The firm will provide general project development support and build relationships with project stakeholders, perform economic analyses, negotiate with and market to potential utility business partners, and support both projects in the regulatory arena as well.
