

Energy Strategies, LLC Enhances Client Services with New Director of Natural Gas Services

Salt Lake City, November 2, 2009—Energy Strategies, LLC is pleased to announce that it has hired Jeff Fishman as Director of the firm’s Natural Gas practice area. Jeff has over 30 years of experience in natural gas related services and facilities. His contributions to Energy Strategies’ Clients will focus on developing and implementing natural gas supply and market business solutions.

“We are extremely fortunate to have someone of Jeff’s caliber join Energy Strategies.” said Energy Strategies President Scott Gutting. “We are expanding our capabilities in the Natural Gas practice area in recognition of the challenges our Clients face managing their natural gas needs in the evolving energy marketplace”.

Prior to joining Energy Strategies, Mr. Fishman co-founded and directed Peak Energy, Inc., a consulting firm providing energy market and corporate development activities to a range of natural gas industry clients. Prior to establishing Peak, he founded and led the executive management team of Grand Valley Gas Company, an active participant in the creation and development of the deregulated natural gas market in North America.

Grand Valley grew from a start-up operation to one of the premier gas industry service companies operating in western North America. Mr. Fishman was actively involved in the natural gas marketplace, and responsible for company management, growth, and profitability. He orchestrated and facilitated a series of corporate combinations within the natural gas services and facilities business. Mr. Fishman started his energy career at Northwest Pipeline Corporation, where he directed the development of an unregulated natural gas gathering and processing business.

Energy Strategies’ Natural Gas Services will leverage the firm’s extensive expertise in energy markets with Jeff’s experience in natural gas services and facilities to enhance and expand the natural gas service portfolio available to our Clients.
